RUTH BEAVER

It's so seldom our people have an opportunity to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary that it is a red letter day when that year rolls around.

Miss Sherman's mother is the former Miss Ouida Martin, of Stillmore, Ga. The bride-elect was graduated from the Dublin High School, after which she attended Georgia Teachers College in Statesboro. She was soloist for the Philonic choir, vice-president of the sophomore class and a member of the beauty court and May court for two years.

Miss Sherman received her Bachelor of Fine Arts from the University of Georgia. While there she was a member of the Pandora Beauty Court for two years, and "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" in 1947. She was vice-president of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority and a member of Sigma Alpha Iota, National Music Fraternity. At present she is associated with the Fulton County School System as choral director of Southwest High School in Atlanta.

Mr. Almond is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Almond, of Atlanta. His mother is the former Miss Myrtle Corlie. He was graduated from the Georgia Institute of Technology and was graduated from the University of Georgia in 1947 with a Bachelor of Arts degree. He is a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Fraternity and served with the Army Air Force in World War II. He is associated as a staff member with the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

BLUE RAY CHAPTER TO ENTERTAIN VISITORS

Blue Ray Chapter O.E.S. No. 121 will be host to the District O.E.S. convention Wednesday, Nov. 8. The chapters in this part of the state were so widely separated that district officers had to make a year ago presented a plan to the chapters meeting each quarter for a friendship meeting, which plan was enthusiastically received. Through these district meetings each chapter is increasing its own ability, its strength and going forward in a big way.

The district officers are: Aubrey Strickland, of Claxton, president; Willie Sikes, of Tifton, vice-president; Mrs. Louise Usher, of Brooklet, secretary and treasurer.

This next meeting will be held in the Masonic Lodge Hall and will be preceded by supper at 7:30. An interesting program will follow the supper. The worthy matron of Blue Ray Chapter, Mrs. Sarah Pruitt, will welcome delegates and visitors; Mrs. Roy Adams, organizer, will present several musical numbers and skits; Bruce Dubberly, of Greenville, an outstanding fraternal, civic and religious worker, will address the convention. Chapters from Claxton, Swainsboro, Millen, Cobleskill, York, Vidalia, Reidsville, Pembroke, Milledgeville, Sardis and Vidalia will be represented.

DELTA KAPPA GAMMA

A regular meeting of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society, Eastern Division, of Psi State met on Tuesday afternoon, October 17th, at 415, in the home of Mrs. Verna Kemp, of Main street, with Marjorie Crouch as hostess. A delicious salad course with cake and coffee was served. Evaluation and planning was the main feature of the afternoon. Projects for the year, such as scholarship "Cave Packages" and "Charity at Home," were discussed, and a selection of a project was designated to be made at the next regular meeting. Each chairman was asked by the president, Miss John, to contact her state chairman in regard to the duties of officers. The regular annual membership drive was also discussed.

The meeting adjourned with the singing of the Delta Kappa Gamma song. Those present were: Ella Johnson, Marjorie Crouch, Ida Groover, Lela Hughes, Marjorie Crouch, Edna Luke, Maude White, Marie Wood, Marie Wood and Fronta Rouch as co-hostesses. A delicious salad course with cake and coffee was served. Evaluation and planning was the main feature of the afternoon. Farm Women In Active Meeting

One of the high highlights of the Bulloch County Home Demonstration Council came last Friday night, when the group held their annual banquet at the Jockey Hotel. Mrs. Earl Lee, president, was master of ceremonies. The program opened with a devotional rendered by Mrs. S. H. Henderson, with the aid of several musical instruments.

New project leaders who had to be elected since the present council officers were installed were Mrs. Hugh Allen, Mrs. Herman Nesmith, Miss Lella White, Mrs. Cecil Canette and Mrs. Dan Lee. Miss Dorothy Johnson, assistant home demonstration agent, lighted the candles of these new leaders and presented them with a challenge for better leadership.

Mrs. Billy Simmons, past council president, gave the history of "America's Beautiful," after which the group sang the song.

Pins bearing the Home Demonstration symbol were awarded by Mrs. Lester to club members who had done outstanding club work during the year. Those who received numeral guard No. 2 and chain for two years of outstanding service were Mrs. H. V. Franklin, Mrs. Howard Christian, Mrs. Ralph Moore, Mrs. Cecil Canette and Mrs. Carter Deal. Those receiving a pin for one year of service were Mrs. H. A. Nesmith, Mrs. Emily Scott, Mrs. Alton Brannen, Mrs. Ethel Ellis, Miss Mary Jo Moore, Mrs. Frank Smith, Mrs. Delmas Rushing, Mrs. Comer Bird, Mrs. E. L. Womack, Mrs. Dan Lee, Mrs. John Rushing Jr., Mrs. Lee Wynn, Mrs. Jesse Akins and Mrs. H. A. Nesmith.

The climax of the banquet came when Mrs. Lester presented her inspiring challenge to the 1951 leaders of Bulloch County's Home Demonstration Council of fifteen clubs. In this challenge Mrs. Lester stressed the importance of the place a Home Demonstration club has in building a better community in which to live. She stated that she believed that the home improvement activities of club members, such as living room and kitchen contests, is having a very definite influence on our community development. She continued by saying, "The object isn't an easy one for rural people. It may be full of setbacks and pined-pipers, but we can't expect a free ride. So let your Home Demonstration club be your vehicle for the ride to achievement."

This is the fourth banquet of its kind held by this active organization.

GENEROUS FRIENDS BRING CHOICE FOOD

Foy's Have Established A Drop-In Place On Route 301 Just In Evans County

A fine expression of friendship which is easily interpreted as that collection of canned delicacies delivered at the Times office Monday by J. E. Foy Jr., recent hotel operator new living on the highway near Claxton. Associated with his father in the hotel business here for a long while, J. E. Foy Jr. and his wife made many friends. Leaving here they originally had planned to establish a tourist court on Highway 301 just across the Evans county line.

At a large tract there they have made "fast improvements," including the clearing of many acres for growing crops.

More recently they have entered the business of producing delicate food articles for sale to the passing motorists. It was from this business that the Times office was supplied with these delicacies which included orange marmalade, pear syrup, blackberry jelly and little sweet pickles from his stock of food merchandise. He states that much of the stuff is produced on the plantation, except that oranges are trucked from South Florida. One lady from New York who recently stopped there carried away in her trailer merchandise to the value of $899 and seriously insisted on buying the entire stock of merchandise for her delicatessen business in New York City.

A diplomat is no different than any other person except that he has more time to make up his mind to do the wrong thing.

WAS THIS YOU?

You are an attractive young man with dark brown hair and eyes. Wednesday morning you wore a red skirt and white blouse. You were accompanied by your young daughter. You also have a call.

If the lady described will call at the Times office she will be given two tickets to the picture, "Broken Arrow," showing today and Friday at the Georgia Theatre.

After receiving her tickets, if the lady will call at the Statesboro Florist Shop she will be given a lovely orchid with compliments of the proprietor, Bill Holloway.

The lady described last week was Miss Stacie Lee, who called for her tickets Friday, attended the show, received her orchid, and was in person to express appreciation.

COLLEGE GROUP TO PRESENT BASS SOLOIST

The Georgia Teachers College student group of the American Guild of Organists will present George T. Mitchell, bass soloist of the Bull Street Baptist Church, Savannah, formerly of the Mercer University Glee Club, in a recital at 8:15 p. m. Monday, November 13th. Mrs. Elizabeth Bucklew, minister of music at the Bull Street Baptist Church, will be piano accompanist.

The concert will be given in the auditorium of the Hall lounge. Admission will be free.

ADD NEW SUBSCRIBERS; TO DROP DELINQUENTS?

The newspaper shortage—and resultant increased price—is becoming acute. This will ultimately affect our readership.

On or about the first of December the Farm Bureau will report to this paper the number of subscribers who have come in under the club proposition. Names will be added and credits will be given. This calls for a revision of our list as to arrears. Those who are behind in their subscription may expect to be dropped. If you want to make sure, pay up before December 1st. (Note the date of expiration on your label.)

Bulloch Voters Favor County Unit Plan

In Tuesday's election, state-wide in effect, little interest was manifested except in that issue of county unit system application to general election to the state. According to latest reports the figures standing at 111,002 for the measure, and 143,492 against.

Bulloch county shared in some increased interest, and added her voice in favor of the measure by a vote of 1,475 for and 777 against. By district the vote was as follows:

District For Against
Sinkhole 36 46
Register 55 16
Lockhart 10 15
Briarpatch 79 15
Hagin 64 23
Statesboro 409 584
Bay 88 4
Brooklet 243 44
Blitch 70 79
Port 122 0
Blitch 48 19
Neville 162 14
Total 1,475 777

Latest reports from the state seem to indicate a majority of approximately 40,000 against the amendment.

In his letter he informed the committee members that their excellent work had been published in the Red Cross national publication. The plan being used in Bulloch county is now the model for blood collection programs in other counties.

The collection will begin at 9:30 a. m. on next Thursday and continue through 4:30 p. m.

LOCAL WRITE-IN BALLOT FAVORED LOCAL TALENT

Out of a total of approximately 1,100 votes cast in the Statesboro district Tuesday, there was at least one which displayed a measure of independence which attracts attention. Breaking away from the conventional cast of printed names and issues, this one ballot had a write-in of names for:

Governor, Alfred Dorman; Lieutenant Governor, Sidney Dodd; Controller General, Sidney Dodd; and readers of this paper who know these men will agree that in the selection there was a measure of good judgment worthy of commendation. We are not saying that anything may

J. H. Wyatt introduced Congressman Prince H. Preston, guest speaker of the evening. Mr. Preston prefaced his remarks with the fact that as a nation, we are blessed as compared with the world. He referred to the founders of our country who gave us freedom. He emphasized the fact that the Constitution of the United States is the greatest document ever written, and we must preserve it. The speaker talked on the Korean situation and the global conditions resulting from it. He concluded his talk with a strong appeal for loyalty and patriotism to preserve our freedom.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERTSON HAVE GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Robertson Sr. celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary Sunday afternoon at their home, when a large number of friends and relatives from Bulloch, Effingham, Chatham and other counties came to greet their kinsmen and friends. The home was attractively decorated in yellow and white chrysanthemums and burning tapers. The dining table was covered with a lovely Madeira linen tablecloth. A massive bowl of yellow and white chrysanthemums interspersed with pen-cilled tapers formed a lovely centerpiece.

Mrs. Robertson, "the bride," wore a lovely dress of navy tissue faille with rhinestone accessories and a pretty yellow corsage. Mrs. J. W. Robertson Jr. greeted the guests, and Mrs. R. H. Kingery, their daughter, was general hostess. Mrs. E. C. Watkins poured coffee and the following ladies served refreshments typical of the occasion: Mrs. J. H. Hinton, Mrs. J. E. Parrish, Mrs. Raymond Sommers, Mrs. Paul Robertson, Mrs. C. H. Cochran and Mrs. J. M. Williams. Miss Peggy Robertson, of Atlanta, kept the register.

Mr. and Mrs. Robertson moved to Brooklet from Guyton about forty-five years ago. Mr. Robertson has been a successful planter and business man. He has been in the mercantile business here for more than twenty-five years.

BULLOCH TIMES

AND THE STATESBORO NEWS

D. B. TURNER, Editor-Owner.
SUBSCRIPTION $2.00 PER YEAR

Entered as second-class matter March 28, 1905, at the postoffice at Statesboro, Ga., under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Whence Go Dollars?

THE FINANCIAL experience of a large group of department stores for the first half of the year was recently tabulated. It was found that the stores had much better earnings than in the same period the year before. Yet their profits, after taxes, amounted to only 2.1 per cent of their sales. In the comparable period in 1949, it was 1.2 per cent.

Here is the answer to those who think retailers are able to keep a large part of the money spent with them—and to those who make it a habit to blame the retailer every time the price of something goes up. Actually, most of the money that flows through the cash register flows right out again for stocks, for wages, for taxes, and for rent.

The improved financial experience of the stores during the first half of the year was principally due to the July wave of scarce-buying which sent that month's sales far ahead of the same month the year before. The stores didn't ask for or want that kind of buying. Many of them, including both chains and independents, went to considerable lengths to discourage it. The retailers' work in this regard undoubtedly did much to cause scarce-buying to subside sharply after the first few weeks.

Every retailer must make a profit if he is to continue to do business—the profitless business never lasts long. But, in a vast majority of cases, that profit is far smaller than most consumers think.

Railroads And Research

A SHORT TIME AGO a new million-dollar research laboratory was opened in Chicago, on the campus of the Illinois Institute of Technology. It was built by the Association of American Railroads, an organization which represents practically all of the leading lines of the country. Its purpose is to advance the science of railroading in every possible way. Everything from new engineering developments to the quality and practicability of shipping containers will be tested. In every case the goal will be the same—to enable the railroads to better their service to the shippers and passengers who use them.

The laboratory is new, but the railroads' intense interest in research is not new. Ever since the days of wooden rails railroad men have been working to improve their product, which is the transportation of people and goods. And the over-all results are found in the magnificent railroads of today.

In the words of the Clifton Forge, Va., Review, "Railroads are far from just a string of cars on a track. They are an ever-changing organization, aggressively keeping step with a developing nation. Every major event that has occurred in this nation—whether it be the opening of the West or the prosecution of a great war, has depended in large part on the railroads for success.

Talmadge To Seek Highway Troopers

Atlanta, Oct. 23 (GPS)—Addressing the recent 50th annual convention of Peace Officers Association of Georgia held in Atlanta, Governor Herman Talmadge made it clear that he wants to see Georgia's highways safer in the future—and he's going to try to do something about it.

He said his administration plans to ask the next legislature for 350 men and officers in the State Highway Patrol as "the first line of defense to reduce the toll of death on our highways." Georgia now has a patrol strength of 280 men and officers, and North Carolina, by comparison, has 450.

Starving Babies Given Living Chance by Surgery

In the last ten years, modern surgery has learned techniques that give a chance for life to at least half the babies born without a tube between throat and stomach, all of whom die before that time.

In most of the little patients, the stomach was connected to the trachea or windpipe, which normally leads to the lungs instead of the esophagus. The lower part of the esophagus leading to the stomach was missing.

Ten years ago, all these cases were considered inoperable and all died. Today, with present surgical techniques, more than half are operable and the mortality is being steadily reduced. Of this series 50 per cent of the operable cases survived and, while we are not content with the mortality by any means, it is a big improvement in the steadily dropping mortality.

The important element in saving the baby's life is speedy recognition of the condition. With access to the stomach, the stomach can be fed and will quickly starve unless proper intravenous feeding measures are started immediately. The physician who first sees the baby must diagnose the condition in a few hours. Moreover, the throat of the baby is likely to fill up because they cannot swallow anything and they may choke to death. Also, he added many are premature, in fact, all the patients under five years of age at birth died. They are especially vulnerable to infection.

The technicians in steel are also now using autoradiographs, which are patterns produced on photographic plates by the action of radioactive elements, to supplement microscopic studies. The Geiger counter, famed for its ability to detect uranium and other radioactive substances, has been adapted to a quick, accurate way of analyzing steel.

Another new instrument is the "recording torque magnetometer." It measures the ability of steel to stretch uniformly under the action of stress.

High speed color photography has been employed to study the physical reactions inside the throat of a blast furnace. The pictures, taken at a speed of 3,000 frames a second, show the travel of incandescent particles of raw materials which are estimated to be moving at a speed of 135 miles an hour.

Cattle Disease Test

Accuracy of 90 percent has been reported for a test that singles out cattle which are carriers of anaplasmosis. It is called a complement-fixation test and is regarded as a valuable means of preventing the spread of this malaria-like disease. Cattle which recover from anaplasmosis remain carriers and serve as a springboard or reservoir from which the disease may spread to healthy animals. Helping in its spread are biting insects of several kinds. Although heavy anaplasmosis losses have occurred in the South and Southwest, cases may appear anywhere, particularly if cattle are shipped in from infected areas. This was demonstrated recently in a Michigan dairy herd. The disease was diagnosed for the first time in native cattle of that state and linked with animals brought in from the Southwest.

Pinkeye in Cattle

Farmers and veterinarians often have battled outbreaks of pinkeye in cattle herds with apparent success, only to have the disease bob up again at a later date. A possible explanation for this is that a germ commonly involved in this infection will persist in the eyes of cattle even after they recover from an attack. The recovered animals therefore become carriers, spreading the germs when conditions become favorable for another outbreak. This also may explain how newly purchased animals which seem to be perfectly healthy can introduce pinkeye into a herd previously free of the disease.

Reducing Diet of Dogs

Science is putting overweight dogs on a reducing diet. The purpose is not stylish canine figures, but health. The American Veterinary Medical Association explains that excess poundage may be just as dangerous to a dog as it is to a human being. But finding a formula which would reduce weight yet give the dog adequate nutrition was long sought by veterinary researchers. The A.V.M.A. says: Now, not only has a satisfactory reducing diet been worked out, but so have special prescription diets for dogs suffering from kidney and intestinal diseases. One even has been devised for expectant canine mothers.

What Are The Issues?

TO PUT IT MILDLY, the political strategies of both parties are in a state of confusion and wonder as to what changes, if any, the November elections will produce. Republican and Democratic party spokesmen have passed the routine of saying they expect whopping victories at the polls. Neither side, it is safe to say, is anywhere as confident as those standard-brand prognostications would seem to indicate.

The primaries have not demonstrated much of anything. Both Truman and anti-Truman candidates have won. The New Hampshire primary was watched with the greatest interest, where pro-Truman Senator Tobey ran against an anti-Truman war veteran. Senator Tobey made the grade. In the Maine election, the GOP candidates, as usual, won in a walk. Elsewhere results were indecisive.

The Democratic position will be much the same as it was last time. It will be argued that the President is the friend of the masses of the people and the enemy of the exploiters, and that his program is just what the country needs. It will be necessary to elect a strongly Democratic Congress, the argument will continue, to give him the support he must have. The Taft-Hartley law will undoubtedly take a verbal beating, as a bid is made for the important labor vote. The Brannan plan will get its full share of praise, as an inducement to the farmer to stay on the Democratic side of the ticket.

The dismissal of Secretary Johnson, a bare two weeks after the President said that he would keep that official on for the duration of his administration, is a straw in the wind. Public and Congressional opinion had flared up against Mr. Johnson to the point where the political high command decided he was an impossible liability to the party. General Marshall, with his vast prestige and splendid record, was from that point of view a perfect choice.

That the Republicans have plenty of ammunition goes without saying. The vast change for the better in the Korean situation does not detract from the fact that we were utterly unprepared for a war there. The right-about-face that the administration has made in Asiatic policy provides the GOP with a potent weapon. Great criticism will be made of the administration's demand that private citizens stretch when it continues domestic spending at an increasing rate while piling on top of it an unprecedented number of billions—$30,000,000,000 for the next fiscal year alone—for military purposes. The basic Republican argument will be that the Democrats have at last proven themselves utterly incapable of guiding this country through the period of strain and grave danger that lies ahead. The Republican leaders hold that there is evidence that this belief has grown in the grass-roots. Whether it has grown to sufficient extent to change the control of Congress is what no one knows. And that is what will make the coming elections unusually interesting.

Plans Being Shaped For Elaborate Celebration To Be Staged In Late January
Athens, Oct. 23—Initial plans for celebrating the University of Georgia's 150th anniversary were made here this week by a 30-man sesqui-centennial committee.
The celebration will begin on Founders Day, January 27, 1850, and end at the June commencement exercises.
The four-and-a-half month observance will mark the University's 150th year of operation. Doors were opened to students on the Athens campus in 1801, although the University had been chartered sixteen years earlier on January 27, 1785.
The celebration is being planned by a committee of University, city and county representatives. Dyer Massey, a University alumnus and editor of the Wrightsville Light, will direct the celebration activities.
Later this month University President O. C. Aderhold is expected to appoint an executive committee which will screen proposed projects for the celebration.
According to President Aderhold, the purpose of the sesqui-centennial is to show the University's progress over a century and a half and to depict its needs and visions for the future.
Plans for the sesqui-centennial include a lecture series which will bring nationally known speakers to the campus, and the production of a half-hour movie depicting student life at the University. The movie is to be produced by the Southern Education Film Production Service located on the University campus.
Other plans for the celebration include the publication of a number of bulletins for wide distribution showing the need and contributions of the University.

MRS. WOODCOCK HONORED
A lovely compliment to Mrs. W. R. Woodcock was the luncheon given Sunday at the Jaekel Hotel in celebration of her seventy-ninth birthday, with the members of her family as hosts. Mixed chrysanthemums, the birthday cake were on the table. Mrs. Woodcock was attractively dressed in a gray suit with which she wore a corsage of red carnations, the gift from her two oldest granddaughters, Misses Betty Smith and Barbara Ann Brannen. After the luncheon the group enjoyed while in the private parlor, where the honoree opened her beautiful gifts.
Present with Mrs. Woodcock on this happy occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Lester Brannen Sr. and little granddaughter, Emily Brannen, Miss Barbara Ann Brannen, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Smith, Miss Betty Smith, Bobby Smith, Mr. and Mrs. George Prather, Misses Deborah and Georganna Prather, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McElveen and sons, Harry Jr. and Allen, of Virginia, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Woodcock and daughters, Misses Willette and Bonnie.

MRS. BYARS HONORED
Mrs. W. A. Byars, of Atlanta, who is spending several days this week as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hinton Booth, was honored Monday by Mrs. Booth, who entertained with a bridge-luncheon. Twenty guests were served lunch at the Jaekel Hotel, where a lovely arrangement of red carnations and white dahlias decorated the table. Following the luncheon sixteen guests assembled at the bride home on Zettlerow avenue for the bride and groom. The chrysanthemums were arranged of chrysanthemums were arranged about the home. Stationery was the gift to Mrs. Byars. For high score in bridge a compact was won by Mrs. W. H. Blitch; for low Mrs. Prince Preston received a coin case; for cut an apron went to Mrs. Thad Morris, and two handkerchiefs as floating prize were won by Mrs. R. L. Cone.

HOME DEMONSTRATION COUNCIL MEETS
The program planning meeting of the Bulloch County Home Demonstration Council was held Monday, Nov. 6, at the Ogeechee Club room. Mrs. Earl Lester presided at the session. Mrs. Frank Proctor gave the devotional and Mrs. F. D. Thackston extended a word of welcome from the Ogeechee club. Plans for the coming year were discussed and year books were planned with emphasis on nutrition. It was voted that we sponsor a bazaar and flower show during the year and that each club have a silver tea in December. About thirty members attended this meeting with four visitors from Jenkins and Candler counties.

WOMAN'S CLUB TO HAVE VISITOR
The regular monthly meeting of the Statesboro Woman's Club will be held on Thursday, November 17th, at the Forest Heights Country Club at 1 o'clock. This will be a luncheon meeting and price of the plate will be $1.25.
Mrs. T. A. Maxwell, state president, will be guest speaker on the program, the theme of which will be "Preserving Our American Heritage."
All members of the Junior Woman's Club, the East Side Woman's Club, and any clubs of the district are invited to attend this meeting. Reservations must be made by Monday, November 13th, through Mrs. Chas. Edmond, R.E.A. home economist, met with the ladies.
R. P. Mikell, county Farm Bureau president, predicted that the county will have about as many members this year as there were last year. He pointed out that farmers who followed the action of the Farm Bureau when efforts were made to dump surplus farm commodities on the market at 90 per cent of parity know that the organization saved them many dollars; on cotton alone this meant about 10 cents per pound. Farmers know that the Farm Bureau is putting money in their pockets and will strive to build a stronger organization.
The Middleground Farm Bureau and Ivanhoe group made definite plans to sign up those interested in a telephone at their meetings Thursday and Friday night.
Public Service Commission Engineer R. B. Alford and a construction engineer, J. E. Robinson, met with the Middleground group to discuss the program with them. W. C. Hodges Jr., their president, predicted there would be 25 to 40 that wanted phones in that community alone. He also predicted that the community would enroll at least as many members in the Farm Bureau this year as it did in 1949, which was 153.
Mr. Hodges asked that John H. Olliff, J. I. Smith and Clomer McGlemery serve as their nominating committee, to report at the December meeting.

AAUW CHANGES DATE
The local branch of A.A.U.W. has changed its meeting time to Friday, November 10th, in order to have Father Smith present. The topic of Father Smith's talk will be "My Pilgrimage to Rome," and will deal with events and personalities of his visit to Europe last year.
Dr. Georgia Watson, president of the A.A.U.W., has secured the use of the recreation center building for this meeting and has extended an invitation to the general public to attend this open meeting. Time of the meeting is 8 p. m.

DOUBLE DECK CLUB
Members of the Double Deck Club enjoyed a lovely party given during the past week with Mrs. Percy Baldhage at her home on Savannah avenue, where the attractive decorations were composed of fall fruits and flowers. Small pumpkins wrapped in cellophane with silver stems were given as favors. A devil-tasse cup and saucer for high score was won by Mrs. Glend Jennings and a decorative wall plate for cut was won by Mrs. D. L. Davis. Assorted ragniches were served with sherbet and gingerale. Twelve members were present.
